

CIDI 25 ECTS

Clinical Instruments for Evaluating Health - Development, Evaluation and Implementation at the Department of Nursing Science, University of Turku, Finland

Responsible teachers
Professor Riitta Suhonen
Professor Minna Stolt

MODULE I 5.-13.1.2026

Concept of instrument
Concept of measurement
Measuring health
Different types of instruments

MODULE II 14.1.-1.3.2026

Defining a clinical problem and concept analysis
Methods for locating existing instruments
Questionnaire design and pilot testing
Validity and reliability testing
Modification and equivalence

MODULE III 2.3.-5.5.2026

How to use an instrument?
Scientific usability of an instrument
Practical usability of an instrument
Economic evaluation of an instrument and its usability

Clinical Instruments for Evaluating Health – Development, Evaluation and Implementation

CIDI Course in 5 January – 5 May 2026

Module I January 5th - 13th

- Contact teaching in Turku, January 12th - 13th
- Independent reading, January 5th - 11th

Module II January 14th - March 1st

- Contact teaching in Turku, January 14th - 16th
- Independent working, January 17th - March 1st

Module III March 2nd - May 5th

- Asynchronized online lectures and written assignments, March 2nd - 29th
- Independent working and reading, March 30th - May 3rd
- Online seminars on Zoom, May 4th - 5th

Target groups

Master and PhD students in nursing and health sciences
Advanced Practice Nurses and Post Doc researchers

Contact details

University of Turku
Department of Nursing Science
20014 University of Turku, Finland
Email: intnurse@utu.fi

Picture: Suvi Harvisalo / University of Turku

Application deadline

28 November 2025

at: ty.fi/cidi2026

(or QR code below)

Persons in charge

Professor Riitta Suhonen &
Professor Minna Stolt

